

MA Nikola Vujičić, is a Research Associate at the Institute of Criminological and Sociological Research in Belgrade and a member of Serbian Association for Criminal Law and Practice. Also, he is an Attorney at Law and a member of Serbian and Belgrade Bar Association. He graduated in 2012 from Belgrade University's Faculty of Law. Currently, he is PhD student at the same Faculty (area: Criminology, Penology and Execution of Criminal Sanctions) and a lecturer in the field of criminal law, within the Serbian Judicial Academy. During his studies, he was awarded fellowships by the European Society of Criminology, the Max Planck Institute for Foreign and International Criminal Law and the Ministry of Education, Science and Technological Development of the Republic of Serbia.

He has participated in a number of research projects funded by the EU, OSCE, Republic of Serbia and Faculty of Law University of Belgrade, such as: "Prevention and Fight against Corruption", "Research and Evaluation in the Field of Conditional Release", "Assessment of the Application of security measures in the Serbian Criminal Justice System", "Identity transformation of Serbia", "Expert research and analysis on re-offending in Serbia", "Expert analysis on use of conditional release (parole) by the courts" and "Crime in Serbia: Phenomenology, Risks and Possibilities of Social Intervention". He has written over thirty articles and studies and participated in several international scientific conferences.